

From: "FilmWords" [REDACTED]@gmail.com>
Subject: Re: FadeIn Awards
Date: Mon, November 17, 2008 12:24 pm
To: [REDACTED]@fadeinonline.com

Perfect, Thank you.

On Mon, Nov 17, 2008 at 11:01 AM, [REDACTED]@fadeinonline.com> wrote:

> yes per the letter notes are the first thing to be sent to you.
> our staff works on the notes and goes over any questions you have.
> what does it mean to place? it means you beat out thousands of people for > two top spots. what kind of question is that for someone to ask?
> per the letter, winners are immediately announced in the next issue of > Fade In and then a trade press release once rewrites/polishes are in.

>> Hi,

>> Yes, I understood the process as you explained and outlined in the > letter;

>> however, what's unclear is what happens next." Am I waiting for notes >> from your end? You mention "we" work on making the script better -- may >> ask who "we" is? And yes, long process I understand, but are you saying >> you
> I

>> announce the winners maybe up to a year after winning: 2007 winners >> announced in 2009?

>> [REDACTED] the reason I'm asking is because I was asked. In a recent > meeting

>> the subject came up and I was asked two questions I didn't have the > answer

>> to; what does it mean to place, and, what happens next?

>> So I thought I would write and ask.

>> Best,

>> David

>> On Mon, Nov 17, 2008 at 10:18 AM, [REDACTED]@fadeinonline.com> wrote:

>>> Hi David

>>> Bit confused as to your question. Per our conversation and your letter, >>> we >>> work with you on polishing your winning scripts first then once all >>> rewrites polishes are in we make announcements in Fade in, possibly >>> trades, etc. This can be up to a yearlong process.

>>> [REDACTED]
>>> [REDACTED]
>>> [REDACTED]
>>> I'm curious... what can one expect at this point, or in the near